Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion:

February's JEDI Walk (Wednesday, 2/15, meeting in the Learning Commons outside FRCAE at 1 PM), will discuss the lack of diversity in sports leadership compared to the representation among the athletes competing. Specifically, the NFL's lack of coaching diversity, their rule changes to make an effort at changing that, and whether or not those changes have been effective at all. JEDI Committee members Jonathan Bellomo and Chris Herbeck, will also circle back to NCCC's policies as a related topic, as there are some similarities there. Please come with your insights and opinions, and maybe even sweat bands to encourage a healthy pace! Hope to see you there,

John D Strong, Chief Diversity & Equity Officer

SPRING 2023 SCREENING SCHEDULE

NCCCinephiles

We are paying homage to variety this semester with diversity on the screen and behind the camera. Paradoxically, when we honor what sets individuals apart, we can better appreciate what unites us as human beings. Each screening will be remarkably different from the others, so strive to see all three.

All films this semester are open to the public, courtesy of the Henrietta G. Lewis Library, the Office of Diversity & Equity, and the Len Sabato Memorial Film Series.

A Choice of Weapons: Inspired by Gordon Parks

(John Maggio, HBO Documentary Films, 2021)

Thursday, February 23, 5:00-8:00PM in E-142 | Presented by Scott Sackett

NCCC instructor, filmmaker, and public media producer Scott Sackett will lead a discussion of this riveting documentary film starring Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Ava DuVernay, Spike Lee, and others who recognize the legacy of photo journalist-turned-movie director Gordon Parks. Chances are, you have seen some of Parks's famous images from Life magazine without knowing the full story of this artist and social activist whose work broke barriers and portrayed common folk with dignity.

Cloud Atlas

(Tom Tykwer, Lana Wachowski, and Lilly Wachowski; Warner Bros.; 2012)

Thursday, March 30, 5:00-9:00PM in E-142 | Presented by S.V. Buffamanti

Presented by S.V. Buffamanti on Thursday, March 30, 5-9PM, in E-142

The modifier "epic" is used so often that its meaning has been diluted, but Cloud Atlas is an epic film whose expansiveness required three directors and that demands the largest screen available. Based on the novel by David Mitchell, Tykwer (Run Lola Run) and the Wachowskis (The Matrix) interweave six separate storylines from different genres (including SF, thriller, and comedy), spanning hundreds of years and multiple continents to pay tribute to the ways that human beings stand up for truth and dignity when opposed by forces both large and small.

Secret Path

(Gord Downie, Antica Productions, 2016)

Wednesday, April 19, 5:00-7:00PM, in E-142 | Presented by Ian Stapley

Between the 1880s and 1996, the Canadian government forcibly removed thousands of Indigenous children from their families. The children were sent to far away Residential Schools with the purpose of erasing their culture, heritage, and language. The abuse the Residential schools inflicted on these children is a national shame. Gord Downie's animated film Secret Path tells the story of one of these children, Chanie Wenjack, who fled the Cecilia Jeffrey Indian Residential School to return to his family, nearly four hundred miles away. He died en route. He was twelve years old.
